DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-8 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
4. Referring to claims 1, 6-8 recite the limitation “when the result from said decision means is that said identification information is stored in said memory storage means”, it is not clear to the examiner to determine the scope of the invention. However, the examiner views the limitation of transfer means is done when the result of the decision means is positive for further examination.
5. All dependent claims are rejected to as having the same deficiencies as the claims they depend from.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

6. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

7. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claim 1 claims an information processing device which is a hardware structure comprising all the software steps (memory storage means, decision means, and transfer means), which renders the claims non-statutory.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

8. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

9. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Katsume et al., US Patent Number 6,188,689, hereinafter Katsume.

10. Referring to claim 1, Katsume has taught, an information processing device for sending data to a terminal device connected to a second network made up of an aggregate of plural first networks (Col 12 lines 4-11), said device comprising:

- a. memory storage means (figures 11 and 12, Col 2 lines 9-13) for storing information for identifying said terminal device (MAC address) paired with position information specifying the current position of said terminal device (IP address);

- b. decision means for determining whether or not identification information specifying the terminal device of the transfer destination contained in said received data is stored in said memory storage means (Col 17 lines 29-49) and,
  - c. transfer means for transferring said data to said specified first network holding said terminal device according to said stored position information paired with said identification information, (Col 2 lines 13-21) when the result from said decision means is that said identification information is stored in said memory storage means (Col 17 lines 29-37).
11. Referring to claim 2, Katsube has further taught wherein said first network is a subnetwork and said second network is a domain (Col 7 lines 27-33 indicates the data packet is in IPv6 format, and IPv6 protocol contains fields indicates the domain and subnetworks.)
12. Referring to claim 3, Katsube has further taught wherein said identification information is an interface ID specifying said terminal device (figure 11, MAC address), and said position information is a unique address within said second network (figure 12 IP address).
13. Referring to claim 4, Katsube has further taught wherein said transfer means transfers said data to a fourth network made up of an aggregate of a plurality of third networks when result from said decision means is that said identification information is not stored in said memory storage means (Col 17 lines 37-49).
14. Referring to claim 5, Katsube has further taught wherein said third networks are subnetworks and said fourth network is a domain (Col 7 lines 27-33 indicates the data packet is in IPv6 format, and IPv6 protocol contains fields indicates the domain and subnetworks.)

15. Referring to claims 6-8, claims 6-8 encompass the same scope of the invention as that of the claim 1. Therefore, claims 6-8 are rejected for the same reason as the claim 1.

Conclusion

16. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Applicant is reminded that in amending in response to a rejection of claims, the patentable novelty must be clearly shown in view of the state of the art disclosed by the references cited and the objection made. Applicant must show how the amendments avoid such references and objections. See 37 CFR 1.111(c).
